Sukarno Says He'll Resign At Angry Jakarta Meeting

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno threatened to resign in an angry scene at a closed meeting with military commanders Tuesday, Indonesian press reports say.

The reports, published Wednesday, say the president threatened to resign if criticism of him continued. He had earlier refused to comply with demands that he should give an account of the events leading up to last year's attempted coup d'état.

The president is reported to have denied that either he or the Indonesian Communist party were responsible for the coup. He blamed the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The newspapers say he stormed out of the palace meeting after declaring, "If all of you do not like me I will resign and continue my struggle in my own way."

Army strongman Lt.-Gen. Suharto was not present, the papers add.

The president called a meeting of the five-man ruling presidium at the palace Wednesday to discuss Sukarno's intention to reshuffle Gen. Suharto's cabinet. He said that some ministers were disloyal.

Peking Echoes With Noise To Mark Nuclear Explosion

PEKING (Reuters)—The Chinese capital echoed with drums, bells and gongs today as thousands of persons marched in long columns through bitterly cold streets to celebrate China's fifth nuclear test Wednesday.

The main Communist party newspaper, the Peoples Daily, announced the test in huge red banner headlines but its report consisted only of the official press communique and there were no pictures or comment in today's press.

The communique said the explosion was a complete success but it gave no details of the type, strength and method of the test. The information it contained was even more scant than communiques announcing the previous four tests.

The official communique said the latest test raised China's nuclear weapon technology "to a new level" but it did not say how.

The Peking press today stressed the political aspects of the tests, which the communique described as the "rich fruit of the great proletarian revolution."

This was emphasized in the banners and slogans of marchers parading through the city with portraits of Mao Tse-tung, Communist party chairman, and red flags.

The communique also called the test a great encouragement to the Vietnamese people and a "heavy blow to the plot of U.S. imperialism and Soviet modern revisionism."

As it has done after past tests, China reaffirmed that would time and in no circumstances would it be the first to use nuclear weapons.

Soviet Missiles Aim At China — Ottawa Intelligence Reports

OTTAWA (CP) — Intelligence reports indicate Russia has installed many new long-range missiles in the last year, nearly all of them pointed at Communist China, informed sources said today.

The sources said the Soviet Union is apparently more worried than the U.S. about the possibility of China's early capability to deliver nuclear weapons.

China set off a fifth nuclear device Wednesday with a reported power of 300 kilotons—15 times the strength of the bomb which devastated Hiroshima in 1945.

There have been suggestions here that Canada might eventually have to join the U.S. in construction of an anti-missile system designed to intercept rockets fired from China rather than Russia. Until recently, this possibility had been judged to be at least eight years away.

Prime Minister Pearson suggested last June that the U.S. and Russia reach a mutual agreement to refrain from building anti-missile systems designed to shoot down each other's intercontinental rockets.

He said construction of such systems would accelerate the arms race again without any increase in national security in either country or in international stability.

One of Canada's stated reasons for trying to gain Red China's entry into the United Nations is to bring China into disarmament discussions.

There have been published reports in the U.S. that Russia's recent increase in its defence budget is for a defence build-up against China, not the U.S.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market continued to slip downwards in morning trading today, dispelling any hope of a traditional year-end rally.

The slump is following the trend on the New York Exchange.

Brokers say there hasn't been any news to stimulate the economy and as a result the stock market has floundered.

They attribute tight money and uncertainty about the immediate prospects of key industries as keeping potential investors away from the market.

By 11 a.m. only 512,000 shares had changed hands compared with 509,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The industrial index, which has given up ground all week, eased .09 to 146.74 as Great Lakes power dropped 1 to 22. Ford of Canada 1 1/2 to 118 1/2. Massey-Ferguson 1/2 to 22 1/2 and Power Corp. 1/4 to 9 1/2.

Gold recovered most of Wednesday's loss as Dome gained 1 to 44 1/2 and Campbell Red Lake 1/2 to 22 1/2.

Copper-Man fell 1 1/4 to 25 cents in speculative mines.

On index, golds were up 1.15 to 152.97, base metals 19 to 85.02 and western oils .05 to 131.03. The TSE was down .05 to 140.88.

B.C. Overtime Freeze 'Impossible To Police'

The provincial government's overtime freeze will be impossible to police and enforce in all cases, the secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor said Wednesday.

"It couldn't possibly be enforced under the present setup of the board of industrial relations," Ray Haynes said in Victoria. "It does not have enough inspectors. Our biggest complaint has been the lack of enforcement of present regulations. There is a lack of being able to make periodic checks of companies to see if they are living up to the regulations," said Mr. Haynes.

Carl Barch, U.S. state department press officer, said Wednesday in Washington that preliminary estimates show China's fifth nuclear test was not as powerful as its third explosion last May. U.S. officials said the latest test was 10 to 20 times more powerful than the 20-kiloton bomb dropped on Hiroshima, Japan, in the Second World War.

The Cuban newspaper Juventud Rebelde suggests author William Manchester is being liquidated for refusing to remove embarrassing passages from his book Death of a President. Citing the case of Jack Ruby, the newspaper wrote: "There is nothing strange that Manchester, after not letting himself be seduced, should enter hospital with lung trouble which later may quite normally be complicated with cancer or any other fatal illness in favor."

Ruby is accused of killing Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's assassin and is suffering from terminal cancer. "From what can be seen in the United States anybody involved in the assassination of Kennedy, or who makes investigations to unravel it, is exposed to catching infectious illnesses."

Australian Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell accused the South Vietnamese charge d'affaires in Canberra today of an appalling breach of diplomatic protocol and said he would be sent home. ## Moon Life 'Possible'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Russian scientist said today the moon's desolate surface might conceal some primitive form of life beneath it, despite its dead appearance.

Conditions on the lunar surface were too harsh to support any form of life as we know it except with special protection, Alexander Oparin said in the Moscow youth newspaper Moskovsky Komsomolets.

The surface itself could act as protection against radiation, he added.

Beneath the ground, temperatures fluctuated less between icy lunar nights and scorching days, which each last 14 earth-days.

Oparin, who heads the Academy of Sciences' Bakh institute of biochemistry, said there might even be water in some form beneath the surface rocks.

His suggestion came as Russia's space experts were working over a stream of pictures of the lunar surface and other information fed back to them from their latest moon station, Luna XIII, which soft landed Dec. 24.

SNOWFALL ENHANCES KELOWNA'S MAJESTIC NIGHT TIME WINTER BEAUTY

The city of Kelowna, nestled between the mountains of the Okanagan Valley, is aglow with light this week. In this panoramic view of the city, taken from the top of a hill on the west side of Okanagan Lake, street lights, house lights and neon signs mingle with the seasonal lights of Christmas. Kelowna didn't have a white Christmas this year but Wednesday night's snowfall produced the perfect setting to properly display Christmas decorations. With a crust of snow on the eaves and the reflection of colored lights gleaming in the snow,

Kelowna becomes a fairyland. This picture is a time exposure taken by Miss Bea

Parker, 1947 Knox Cres. Prior to Wednesday's snowfall many city residents were enjoying evening drives through Kelowna streets to view colorful seasonal decorations.

The board further rejected a complaint from the Brewery Workers Union that an agent of theirs was dismissed unjustly by the company.

Christmas Telephone Calls Increase From City Exchange

The number of long distance telephone calls made from Kelowna Christmas Day increased this year compared with Christmas Day, 1965.

But hard-pressed operators were given some relief because more people used direct distance dialing this year.

There were 44 more long distance calls made this year than last. DDD calls increased by seven per cent, operator-handled calls decreased by three per cent.

The Kelowna exchange includes Peachland, Westbank and Winfield.

Mrs. Evelyn Tobo, traffic supervisor with the Okanagan Telephone Company, says there were 934 DDD calls made on Christmas Day, compared with 888 made on the same day a year ago.

There were 703 operator-handled calls made compared with 725 on Christmas Day last year.

There were 5,990 calls, operator-handled and DDD, made in the whole telephone area which stretches from Mica Creek to Penticton. This is an 8.5 per cent increase over last year's 5,521 calls.

DDD calls went across the country without difficulty but not all operator-handled calls could be put through.

Mrs. Tobo suggested that calls made before 9 a.m. have the best chance of being completed.

There were 32 operators, three more than last Christmas Day, on duty Sunday. On a normal day, 21 operators handle the work.

Telephone Rate To Europe May Go Down In February

Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp. and the trans-Canada Telephone System announced Wednesday a 25 per cent reduction in certain transatlantic station-to-station telephone calls.

Okanagan Telephone Company officials said the reduction, effective Feb. 1, would probably be passed on to subscribers in Kelowna and district.

However, a spokesman said European traffic originating in this area was "not heavy" although no actual count could be made, because such calls are handled by overseas operators, usually in Montreal or New York.

The new rates, which for the first time differentiate between station-to-station and person-to-person calls, are effective only with certain European countries.

COTC and Trans-Canada said that the countries with which agreement has been reached are: Austria, Belgium, Denmark and the Faroe Islands, Greenland, Finland, France and Corsica, Greece, Monaco, the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden.

A COTC spokesman said negotiations are continuing with other European countries.

Reduction in rates between Canada and Australia, New Zealand and other Commonwealth countries is being studied.

The announcement said introduction of cheaper station-to-station calls between Canada and Britain and Ireland also is under consideration.

ROADS TREACHEROUS

Winter Arrives With Icy Blast

Winter blew into Kelowna with a vengeance Wednesday night, crippling traffic, snarling air schedules and sending snow crews out into the chilly night.

The brief storm dumped more than two inches of snow on the area within 12 hours and greased roads to the point of impossibility.

Cars spun out of control in downtown Kelowna. On the west side, cars and huge trucks sprawled helplessly in ditches.

At the airport, city crews worked to dull the sheen on the runway and a Vancouver-bound aircraft was delayed for several hours.

The 8:45 p.m. Canadian Pacific Airlines flight to Vancouver left on time but was unable to land in Penticton.

The aircraft returned to Kelowna, where crews with a plow, a loader and a snow blower were working frantically to clear a path.

The plane landed in Kelowna and while stand-by crews were called in to sand the runway, Penticton passengers were dispatched to Kelowna by bus.

"The runway was so slippery, the aircraft was completely unable to brake," an airport official said today.

The flight finally departed for Vancouver at 11:30 p.m. Exhausted crews quit at midnight but started work again at 5 a.m.

Both city crews and crews from the department of highways worked through the night. Cars spun in circles on Bernard Avenue. Day crews continued the work started last night.

Some 15 men and most of the city equipment—four sanders and three plows—are at work on city streets today.

On the west side of Okanagan Lake, a stretch of black ice near the Okanagan Regional College site sent a dozen cars flying into the ditch. Two semi-trailer trucks were also halted.

A full department of highways crew worked from 4 p.m. Wednesday to 7 a.m. today. Today, eight trucks are working on the highway.

In addition, two plows and one snow blower are working on the Big White road.

Four accidents were reported to the police.

Product Research Section Established By Sun-Rype Ltd.

During its 21st year of operation, Sun-Rype Products Ltd. is expanding into a new field.

Ian F. Greenwood, general manager has announced formation of a research and product development department and establishment of research and pilot laboratories to research further uses for fruit grown in the Okanagan.

"There is a definite trend to convenience foods and we consider an active research department essential for the continuing growth of our company," he said.

Mr. Greenwood said he feels the apple industry at large has been lagging in the field of new product development for the processing industry.

There have been great developments in various forms of drying, including freeze-drying and many new uses for fruit such as the recently published baked apples, he said.

"We are indebted to the dominion research station at Summerland for the tremendous amount of help given to us throughout the years by such men as Dr. C. C. Strachan, E. E. Atkinson and Dr. Douglas McGregor currently, and their staffs. Establishment of this research department within our company is expected to allow us even greater advantage of the valuable work done by the Summerland Research Station," said Mr. Greenwood.

M. L. COLTART... wide experience

Heading this new department will be M. L. Coltart, who joins the company in the new year. Mr. Coltart graduated from the University of British Columbia with a BSA degree in food technology and comes to Sun-Rype from Montreal, where he was employed by a leading food company. His experience in the field of product research spans all phases from bench top to plant production.

Overnight Mishap Rash Blamed On Snowy Streets

The return of winter road conditions late Wednesday was accompanied by reports of four tanker accidents in a 12-hour period in the Kelowna area. There were no injuries.

Drivers in a two-car collision on Highway 97, two miles south of the Okanagan Lake bridge, at 8:40 p.m. Wednesday, were Eddie Kiyoshi Nakatani, 35, of Kelowna, and George Henry Lytle, 40, of Kelowna. Damage was estimated at $250.

At 10:30 p.m., a car driven by a 16-year-old Kelowna boy rolled over on the Okanagan Lake bridge. Damage was estimated at between $150 and $200.

Two accidents were reported within eight minutes of each other today.

At 9 a.m. at Ellis Street and Harvey Avenue, a tanker carrying concrete, a local bus and a car were involved in a collision resulting in damage estimated at $180. Police said the tanker truck belonging to Canadian Bulk Carriers Ltd., Burnaby, was stopped at the intersection, when a Silver Green Stage Lines bus, driven by John Pavle of Kelowna, was in collision with a car driven by Anna Rathjen, 1288 Sutherland Ave. The car struck the tanker truck, RCMP said. The truck driver was Albert Portel of Port Caplan.

At 9:08 a.m., a truck and car collided on Bernard Avenue. Police said a car driven by Ike Marshall of Kelowna struck a parked truck belonging to Ted Oakland, Kelowna. Damage was estimated at $100.

Two attempted break-ins were reported to the RCMP early Wednesday.

One was at Jenkins, Carriage Ltd., reported at 8:50 a.m. Police said a car had driven into the store, shattering the front window and knocking over two doors on the north side of the store. The car was driven by a 16-year-old boy, who was arrested.

The expected two-car and high Friday at Penticton, 25 and 35.

The high in Kelowna Wednesday was 14 and the low was 29. A heavy rain fell over the city and district, with some snow in the mountains and on the hills. A snow squall on the same day a year ago

Polish Doll Fire Hazard

Fire department officials today warned parents to check inexpensive dolls bought this season and destroy any that might be the Raggedy Ann-type imported from Poland and considered a fire hazard.

Reports have come in from St. John, N.B., Ottawa, Winnipeg, London, Ont., New York City and New Orleans of the dolls, which are said to be dangerous if exposed to heat.

The dolls were sold for $1 or less. They have blonde, brown or pink hair and range in size from nine inches to 18.

"I don't think any have reached Kelowna," said assistant Fire Chief J. E. Roberts. "If they had been reported sold in Vancouver, I would feel more concerned about Kelowna."

He said parents should check any doll of this type which they may have purchased. "For the small cost involved, there is no point in taking a chance," he said. Mr. Roberts suggested anything that appears to be of this Polish-imported type, be destroyed.

The Daily Courier contacted six stores selling toys in Kelowna and all said they did not have any of the Polish-imported dolls for sale. Nearly all had heard of the warning. One store manager thought he might have sold about 40 of them, but a closer check of his order sheets showed the dolls he sold were imported from Japan.

The Dominion fire commissioner in Ottawa said the dolls may constitute a fire hazard. Commissioner R. A. W. Switzer said he had been unable to locate one of the dolls for fire but if they were found to be hazardous his office would act to prevent their sale.

A story from St. John quoted fire department officials as saying the dolls were dangerous if exposed to heat. An expert in the field of fire hazards, a retired fireman, who lives in a high-rise apartment

Usual Winter Conditions Plug Provincial Highways

Snow fell on most B.C. highways during the night, with up to seven inches in the Rogers Pass and an average of two inches on Highway 97.

Department of highways crews were carrying out plowing and sanding operations where necessary.

The department of highways in Kelowna said at 8 a.m. today, the only report from the Fraser Canyon area showed light rain falling.

Three inches of new snow was reported at Kamloops, Salmon Arm and Sicamous areas. Rolling trucks were reported west of Sicamous on No. 1 highway and near Monte Lake on the Falkland Road. The Revelstoke section had six inches of new snow, with a temperature of 25 degrees.

The Rogers Pass had seven and one-half inches of new snow at the summit, with a temperature of 13 degrees. Further east, from Field to Banff, one and one-half inches to three inches of new snow was reported. Shipyards sections were reported from Banff to Calgary.

Two to three inches of new snow was reported on the Allison Pass and now was still falling early today. Kermoo had three inches. On Highway 97, from Penticton north, up to two inches of new snow had fallen. Water, trees or chains were mandatory on the Kelowna-Penticton Road.

The Monache Highway had up to six inches of new snow, with a temperature of 16 degrees. The Lumby area reported two inches of new snow and Cherryville, three to four inches.

THE LARGE AND SMALL GO BACK

"Can I exchange this for a smaller size?" asked a young boy at the Kelowna Christmas Fair. The fair was held at the Kelowna Community Centre, 1000 Lakeshore, at 7 p.m.

A false alarm brought the Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade to the fair. The fire was a small fire in a display case. The fire was quickly extinguished by the firemen.

Requests of ill-fitting gifts were the need to exchange them for a more suitable size. The fair was a success and many gifts were exchanged.

Calling Expansion Halt Wise Move By Council

Kelowna City Council on Monday took a position which will meet with general approval when it adopted a program of no further expansion of boundaries until the present city area is serviced and digested. The period was tentatively suggested as five years.

Growth means problems and some growing pains. Kelowna has expanded rapidly during the last few years, both through increased population within the old city boundaries and through boundary expansion.

This has meant a greater call on all city services—roads, water, sewer, fire protection, police protection, garbage and so on. While progress has been made in providing services to new subdivisions and absorbed areas, the job is not yet completed. This does take time and it is time which the city council is now seeking. It wants time to digest the bite it has taken before taking another bite.

There is, of course, another angle. And an important one which played its part in the council decision, presumably. To service new areas in many cases requires capital expenditure. In some cases present facilities have to be increased to provide capacity to meet the new demands. This is a major immediate capital cost; an investment in the future. The expenditure can be justified because the new properties coming on the tax roll will liquidate the capital debt over a period of years. In municipalities, as in industries, justifiable capital expenditures pay their own way over the years.

In these days of tight money, financing capital expenditures can be a problem and council has obviously decided that this should be avoided whenever possible for the present at least.

These two factors—the city's present commitments and the problem of financing capital expenditures at the present time—undoubtedly influenced council in its decision to approve of no more expansion for the present.

Most people will agree with council's policy. It will give the city time to develop and service the land area it now contains before absorbing more. It does not mean a permanent halt has been called on city development; it just means a breathing space in which the present area can be properly digested.

Held To Ransom

Victoria Colonist

The time has arrived when new guidelines on strike procedure are needed.

No one will deny the right of the employee to decline to work when all other means fail.

But there is a world of difference in the strike which is called by a group of workers against a heartless or unreasonable employer and the strike which hurts not only the parties involved but also hundreds of thousands of people completely unconnected with the dispute.

There have been too many strikes in Canada this year which have interrupted vital services to the public.

Here are a few of them: the St. Lawrence Seaway dispute; the wild-cat strike of railway express workers; the strike of Quebec hospital workers; the railway general strike; the strike of Air Canada machinists; the strike of the B.C. longshoremen, and now renewed threats from the postal workers and the airport control personnel.

These strikes have gnawed at the very vitals of the national economy. They have not been strikes aimed at bringing an employer to heel, but have been deliberately planned to do such grave harm to the national economy that government intervention would be necessary.

They have been more and more widely used by small groups of key personnel (such as the B.C. longshoremen foremen) and their strikes have created havoc, bringing privation and distress to the public at large including fellow workers in other unions.

Storm Warning Sighted For Canadian Economy

OTTAWA (CP) — A four-month break in the long upsurge of industrial production, which started nearly six years ago, appeared at mid-1966 as a storm warning for the Canadian economy.

But as 1967 arrived, bank presidents and industry leaders began forecasting a good year, with steady but less dramatic growth and some moderation in the upward thrust of prices.

Government economists say the economy is delicately poised at a point from which they hope it will advance on another upward climb. But they admit it could falter. To prevent it from turning down is the main object of government policy.

Unofficial estimates put the growth of the Gross National Product—value of all goods and services—in 1966 at $57,200,000,000, about 10 per cent above 1965's $51,986,000,000. At mid-year it was running at a $57,068,000,000 rate.

But about two-fifths of the 10-per-cent gain represent rising prices. The consumer price index for November, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 145.5—a gain of 5.3 index points or 3.8 per cent over a year earlier.

MORE PRICE RISERS
Most predictions have been for a three-per-cent rise during 1967, just about what most economists say is the most the economy can tolerate without inflation.

These forecasts were made before Finance Minister Sharp's mini-budget which included an increase in federal sales tax to 12 per cent from 11. Mr. Sharp said the tax boost should increase the cost of living by much less than one per cent.

The price increases in 1966 were highlighted by rising consumer costs of food. A Senate-Commons committee began hauling major food producers, processors, distributors and retailers before it to explain their pricing policies. The committee will continue its investigation early in 1967.

The measure of the mid-year economic pause was clearly shown in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' index of industrial production, which measures about one-third of total output. It is concentrated in manufacturing, mining and electric power and gas utility output—the areas most immediately affected by over-all changes in economic weather.

RECOVER FROM SLUMP
The industrial production index, based on 1949 output equalling 100, moved down from 274.1 in April to a low of 270.8 in July but recovered sharply to 274.0 in August and climbed to a record 275.7 in September.

During the first nine months of 1966, industrial production was 8.4 per cent higher than in the same period of 1965. And the underlying strength of the economy through the four-month pause was indicated in little or no cutback in output of non-durables—foods, beverages, clothing and the like.

The recovery from the slump in durable goods output was sharp and at the end of October unfilled orders for manufactured goods were running well ahead of year-earlier figures.

The assessment of the 1966 economy by the Economic Council of Canada was that the country's capacity to produce was almost fully engaged. Construction activity slumped markedly, and the council said the government should smooth out the wide swings in its building program to give construction more stability.

MONEY STILL TIGHT
To put brakes on excessive demand pressures, the Bank of Canada has generally tight credit policy during 1966.

The total of currency in circulation and of deposits in the chartered banks at the end of November was $21,344,000,000, up $1,407,000,000 from a year earlier—a more moderate increase than the central bank permitted in the previous year. During the early months of 1966, the bank allowed virtually no change in the money supply.

But money was available for those willing to pay the high interest costs. Reflecting the willingness of business to pay the price, the effective yield on long-term Canadian government bonds at money-market prices rose to 5.95 per cent late in August from less than 5½ per cent at the end of 1965.

During 1966, Finance Minister Sharp imposed several tax increases. In his regular spring budget he adjusted income tax rates to take a larger bite from groups with medium and higher incomes, and introduced a new refundable tax on corporate cash flows. At year's end he had to find another $275,000,000 in tax revenues to pay for increased pensionable benefits. The sales tax increase and a boost in the old age security tax took care of that.

Dutch Bosun Used To It Now

HALIFAX (CP)—Jacob Van Der Berg, bosun of the Dutch tug Barentsz Zee, is spending Christmas away from home for the 13th year in a row.

Home for him is The Netherlands where he has a wife and five children.

"It is the time of year when I miss them most," he said before leaving here on a 40-day, 5,500 mile journey to Nigeria. "But then, going to sea is my life; it's all I know. Next year I will make a request to the head office to spend Christmas with my wife and children."

The 153-foot Barentsz Zee left here Dec. 13 with the 10,000-ton tanker Mobile Test in tow. The tanker, which has had her propeller and superstructure removed, will be used in Africa for testing by Mobil Oil Co.

"We don't anticipate any trouble and if a storm does come up we are well equipped to combat it," said Capt. Evert Itoon. The tug's 18-man Dutch crew will have parties at Christmas and New Year's and, if communications are good, some may be able to talk by radio with their families.

BIBLE BRIEF

OTTAWA REPORT

Don't Complain At Apices Pay

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The governor general and the 10 provincial lieutenant governors have done a little better than the St. Lawrence Seaway workers. The former have had a collective raise over the past three years amounting to 40 per cent; the Seaway workers got 30 per cent this summer.

However nobody could complain that those apices of our governmental pyramid are over-paid. The salary for the post of governor general has remained unchanged throughout our post-war inflation, and is today the same as it was in 1939, namely $48,667. This strange sum arises because the salary was fixed at 10,000 pounds sterling, convertible at the then rate of exchange of one pound being the equivalent of four dollars and eight-six and two-thirds cents. The British pound today is worth about $3.02.

The lieutenant governors used to be grossly underpaid and under-compensated for official travelling and hospitality expenses. But their salaries were increased two years ago, and now range from $20,000 in Ontario and Quebec downwards—but the lieutenant governor of P.E.I. is still paid less than an MP.

JOB DIDN'T PAY

I will recall the typical plight of a former lieutenant governor of Nova Scotia, the late J. A. D. McCurdy—he of aviation fame, as the first pilot to fly an aeroplane within the territory of the British Commonwealth. He told me that he found that the official expense allowance covered his cost of official hospitality for about seven weeks each year only, so he used to reckon that such entertaining all came out of his own pocket from late in February through New Year's Eve.

But they now receive "reimbursement of the cost of travelling and hospitality incurred in the exercise of their duties" on a more generous scale: up to $18,000 a year in our three largest provinces and scaled down to $7,500 in P.E.I.

The largest item, making up about half the total annual cost of the GG and the 10 LGs, is for the office of the GG, which this year is estimated at $387,100. This covers such items as office salaries $262,300; telephones and telegrams $19,000; travelling expenses $15,000; and so on, down to press announcements $500 and freight and cartage $200. When these estimates were submitted to the House of Commons this year, not a single MP was sufficiently observant and curious to ask why there was an astonishing increase of over $100,000 in office salaries, to cover the remarkable expansion in the governor general's staff from 31 employees to 64.

The taxpayers also bear the substantial costs of the upkeep of the official residences of the governor general. These are an estimated $184,000 this year to maintain, clean and heat Rideau Hall in Ottawa, and $25,000 for the similar maintenance of La Citadelle in Quebec City.

About a year ago, the then lieutenant governor of Quebec perished in the disastrous fire which totally gutted his official residence. His successor now is forced to live in a commercial hotel in Quebec City. Since the governor general has used his quarters in La Citadelle for less than one week all this year, representations were made to Ottawa that the lieutenant governor be permitted to live there temporarily, until a decision has been made and either his residence is rebuilt or a substitute is purchased. But no such permission was forthcoming, so it is presumed that the Liberal government in Ottawa refused that convenience and courtesy to Quebec's lieutenant governor, himself a former Liberal federal cabinet minister. So the beautiful quarters in the historic old fort remain unused, although heated, equipped and staffed and care-taken with the taxpayers' money. Why?

Quebeckers would feel less scornful of Ottawa, and less rebuffed, if such an obviously sensible and desirable temporary convenience were to be extended to their burned-out lieutenant governor. At this buttress of the party, Ottawa thus has the opportunity to make its first decision of the year involving the taxpayers in no additional outlay.

Canada's Story

David, Not Sam

Probably The Greatest

By BOB ROWMAN

Probably most people think of Champlain as the greatest explorer in Canadian history, but the honor should probably go to David Thompson. He came to Canada in 1784 as a young lad to work for the Hudson's Bay Company. When he died in Montreal in 1857, in poverty and nearly blind, he had mapped the main travel routes through 1,700,000 square miles of Canadian and U.S. territory.

Thompson began his work when the map of Canada was blank from Lake Winnipeg to the west coast of Vancouver Island. By the time he left the west, he had travelled 50,000 miles by canoe, horseback and on foot.

One of Thompson's great trips began on Dec. 29, 1810, after he had joined the Northwest Company. There was a race between his company and the John Jacob Astor Company of New York to build a trading post at the mouth of the Columbia River, near present-day Portland, Oregon.

He got his instructions, at Northwest Company headquarters at Fort William, and left at once for Rocky Mountain House on the North Saskatchewan river west of present-day Red Deer. After making sleds and snowshoes, Thompson got to the Athabasca River and began his trek through the Rocky Mountains on Dec. 29, 1810. Imagine hiking through the Rockies at that time of year when the temperature was often 20 below zero. In order to avoid fierce Piegans Indians who had blocked Howe Pass, Thompson worked out a new route to the confluence of the Canoe and Columbia rivers that later became the highway for fur-carrying express brigades.

Thompson had already spent years trying to trace the crazy course of the Columbia River. This time he completed the journey to its mouth only to find that John Jacob Astor's men had already arrived. They had made the trip by ship around Cape Horn.

They Are Called 'The Hot Shots...'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some have red scars on their faces, hands swollen to twice normal size, ears partly burned away. Grafted skin criss-crosses raw healing flesh.

They are the 14 survivors of a 25-man U.S. forest service team called El Cariso Hot Shots—specialists in going after the hottest spots of brush fires.

Rich Leak, 19, recalled from his bed in Los Angeles County General Hospital:

"That was my 28th fire in two years. This was a busy summer. We'd been all over the western states. We only had about 10 days off all summer." Summer had ended, but on the hottest Nov. 1 in local history the Hot Shots had been called from their base in Cleveland National Forest in adjoining Riverside County. While they were fighting a 2,100-acre fire in Pico Canyon near Los Angeles, a freak fire storm flashed over them. Within seconds, the sheet of flame burned 11 of them fatally.

Professional firefighters said it was the worst disaster among their trade that they could recall.

In hospitals, doctors began skin-grafting operations immediately. One man died five days after the fire and three still are in critical condition.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Teacher Confused About Bad Breath

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

My teachers told us that if you eat a lot of fats and starches you will have bad breath, and the fumes come from the stomach. And no matter how much mouth wash you use, it will not do good. If this is so, what can be done about the breath?—FRESHMAN

I'm afraid that teacher is a little mixed up. If your digestion is operating in good order, fats and starches don't cause either "fumes" or bad breath. The teacher is correct, however, in saying that mouth washes won't cure all forms of bad breath.

Some foods, garlic and onions being the most notorious, can make the breath quite smelly for a matter of hours. Smoking also can cause unpleasant breath. So can alcoholic beverages.

Aside from those, here are the main causes:

1—Food particles trapped between the teeth or in small crevices, and decaying there. Your toothbrush, dental floss, to remove particles caught between the teeth, and routine visits to your dentist will take care of that.

2—Infections in the mouth, diseases of the gums particularly, can make the breath exceedingly foul. The answer is to see your dentist in that case. It is doubly important because disease of the gums cause the loss of more teeth than cavities do.

3—Chronic infection in the nose or throat (sinus congestion, infected tonsils and adenoids, throat infections and the like) can cause bad breath. Neither mouth washes nor toothbrush, obviously, can clear up such infections. See your doctor.

4—Infections of lungs or bronchial tubes account for some bad breath.

Dear Dr. Molner: If one is dieting, will 14 tablets a day of brewer's yeast (7½ grains each) have any protein and salt benefit?—MISS, D.J.

While brewer's yeast contains some protein and sodium (salt), they are hardly enough to rock on in your diet. The chief value of brewer's yeast is as a source of B vitamins and certain minerals, especially iron and phosphorus.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a bump under my arm for about four weeks. It was sore when I first noticed it, but not now. It's about the size of a small pea. Should I worry about this?—A.G.

If it was sore to start with, it probably is a hair follicle infection that has become a small cyst. Next time you see your doctor, have him check it, or preferably for peace of mind, do it now.

Dear Dr. Molner: What effect does it have if a person has a low count of white blood corpuscles? Is it dangerous?—MISS, K.K.

This phrase can cover a number of conditions. The cause in a specific case is more significant than the actual count.

The white cells in the blood are germ-fighters. If an infection is present in the body, the white cells gather at the site to protect you. At the same time,

Pretty Evening Ceremony Held In Winfield Church

The Winfield United Missionary Church was the scene of a pretty evening wedding Dec. 17 at 7 p.m., when Norma Dean Taylor of Vancouver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Taylor of Winfield, became the bride of Norman Edward Reimer, son of Abraham Reimer and the late Mrs. Reimer of Winfield.

Rev. A. Neufeld officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the organist Barry Neufeld played several selections including the "Wedding March".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in an embellished tulle gown knitted suit trimmed with white fur trim on the cuffs and a matching white fur pillbox hat. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and yellow gladioli, roses, set on her Bible.

For something old—something borrowed—she wore an heirloom star pendant set with pearls belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Philip Raymond.

MAID OF HONOR
The maid of honor was Miss Demessie Hamel of Prince George. Acting as best man was the groom's brother, Robert Reimer, of Vancouver. Ushering the guests to their seats were Len Reimer, of Winfield, and Douglas Hitchman, of Kelowna.

At the reception held in the Winfield Community Hall, the mother of the bride received wearing a knitted burgundy suit and matching hat, accented with a white blouse and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The wedding toasts were proposed by Donald Reimer, brother of the groom, and C. E. Kingston.

The hall was decorated in a Christmas theme with poinsettia table cloths, red and white candles, and vases of white carnations. Flanking the beautiful wedding cake was a spray of yellow and white gladioli, roses matching the bride's bouquet.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Vancouver, paternal grandmother of the bride; the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. Sanderling, of Burnaby; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kingston, of Surrey; aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, of Whitecourt; and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White, of Kelowna.

No Wasp Waists On These Models

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The University Women's Club have found they could fill great-grandma's shoes and have a few of two left over.

The group spent months collecting 38 costumes dating from 1867 to the 1930s to use in a Centennial fashion show. The collection, complete, the costumes began looking for models among the club members and found a problem.

The tight corset of the late 19th century made the 19th-century models feel and look uncomfortable. But Quebec's Jeanne Boudreux, a 19th-century costume designer, had the answer.

Cities With Seasonal Names Can Cause Some Confusion

By TOM CLARIDGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Every Canadian youngster knows Santa Claus lives at the North Pole, which means he is a resident of the Northwest Territories.

Or is he? There are a couple of North Poles in the United States (Alaska and New York) and that may explain why some letters to Santa go astray.

There is also a Santa Claus village, though, for anyone writing to Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer. Where else would Santa's favorite sleigh puller be than at Reindeer Station, N.W.T. The little outpost on the Mackenzie River is one of a host of postmarks in Canada and the United States with a Christmas theme.

There is also a Santa Claus village in the Santa Cruz mountains, but Quebec's Jeanne Boudreux, a 19th-century costume designer, had the answer.

Miss Arnhild Bielert, a student at the University of British Columbia, is spending the holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bielert, Gordon Road.

STREETSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—

A 75-year-old woman who kept 1,500,000 Canadians glued to the radio every time she spoke into the microphone says women broadcasters in Canada are in a "deplorable situation."

Inimitable Kate Aitken, better known as radio's Mrs. A., knows what she is talking about. She broke a cross-Canada link in June, 1957, when she retired without explanation to her regular radio listeners.

Asked why, she told a reporter at that time: "Just say I'm unpredictable, that I never did have any business sense, that I'm probably making a mistake."

She dropped a career which spanned 25 years and took her 2,000,000 miles through 54 countries.

Mrs. Aitken is still keenly interested in the business of newsgathering and future opportunities for women broadcasters throughout the world. She says women broadcasters in Canada have as keen a sense of news value as men, if not a keener one.

"They have a more intuitive sense of values which helps in the evaluation of news and how it affects not one individual but the whole family of humanity."

"But the basic issue is that no woman fits in with the back-room boys—she's out of place, out of context and they have no sympathy with her. "You can beat it in two ways: by an intelligent approach, or by being as rowdy as the boys, and that's out."

The hardships of being a woman in a man's world don't seem to have taken the fun out of her long career. "I enjoyed every moment of it and I'm still enjoying it," she said in an interview.

A devoted grandmother to nine youngsters, she continues to be active in a wide variety of interests, managing even to turn retirement into a career. Up at 7 every morning, she first scans the newspapers and then devotes the morning to writing.

Her current topic is Canadian etiquette— "Extremely interesting because it has changed so."

WROTE ADS AT 10

This fall she returned to university and now she spends each afternoon working on material for a course on a contemporary novel. "I went back because I love writing (so far, she has about 50 books to her name) and I love to learn."

Each Saturday she treks to the nearby South Peel Hospital to distribute reading material to the bed-ridden as a member of the women's auxiliary.

One of seven children of a Beeton, Ont., storekeeper, she grew up in a community where the library, church, the skating rink and the dance club meant a great deal. Because all the store clerks lived in her parents' home, there were "about 25 of us at every meal."

The writing bug first appeared when 10-year-old Kate started to write ads for her father's store in the local paper.

NO DAISIES

Anna Klym, 20, a Russian-born naturalized American from Iowa, says she has decided to give up her studies at Leeds University in Leeds, England, and return to the United States, where, she says, "men are men, not daisies." Miss Klym's views on English men, published in the Leeds University student newspaper stirred up a row among the students. English men "have no sex appeal," she wrote. She has spent a full term at Leeds since breaking off her studies at the University of Iowa.

Mike Can't Lift The Puck But Sure Can Score Goals

Mike Durban couldn't get the puck off the ice, but managed to score five goals as the Kelowna Aces downed the Salmon Arm Aces 10-1 in a game hampered by Christmas turkey. Both teams failed to find high gear at any time.

A small crowd of 120 people watched the Okanagan-Mainline Senior Hockey League game played in the Memorial Arena Wednesday evening.

Near the end of the second period, George Travis and Aces' Al Andrews put on a small display of fistfights, with Travis coming out on the short end.

Neither the Molsons nor the Aces could add much life to the hockey game. Both teams played ed listless hockey, the only standout being the Aces' goaltender, Brian Woodward. Three times within five minutes of the first period Woodward stopped the Molson attack. Norbert Korthals, Wayne North and Reg Saunders were stopped in front of the Salmon Arm net, during breakaways.

The local crew jumped to a 3-0 first period lead on goals by Durban, North and Korthals. The Molsons went ahead 6-0 in the second on goals by Durban with two and a single by Marcello Verna. The Molsons tallied four more in the third period before Salmon Arm could reply with its only goal of the night.

Scoring for the Molsons in the third period were Saunders, North and Durban, again with a pair.

Scoring for the Aces was Doug Scheffeld.

Referee Tony Winchuk called eight penalties during the game, seven against Kelowna. Kelowna outshot Salmon Arm 39-26.

The Molsons travel to Salmon Arm for a return match Monday afternoon.

Sinden Happy Blake Dissatisfied With Outcome Of Bruin, Hab Tilt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston coach Harry Sinden was happy to come out with a 1-1 tie Wednesday night but Montreal coach Toe Blake didn't like it at all.

Certainly Montreal Canadiens, playing on their home ice, did not perform like a team that had just been chosen Team of the Year in the Canadian Press year-end poll of Canada's sports writers and broadcasters.

And there was little display of the talent that took the Bruins to victory in last year's National Hockey League and Stanley Cup championships as fifth-place Boston's Wayne Connelly whipped in a tying goal two minutes and 23 seconds before the final buzzer.

"We didn't deserve to win it," said Blake. "We played poorly and can probably count ourselves lucky that we came out with a tie."

Canadians' Jim Roberts scored his third goal of the season when he deflected in Montreal's only goal at 12:37 of the second period.

FOLLOWS PATTERN

Blake's team was no doubt accentuated by the fact that Tuesday night's last-gasp goal by Boston followed the pattern of the Canadiens' previous game, in Montreal Saturday, when the New York Rangers snatched a 4-3 victory with a closing minutes marker.

Sinden, on the other hand, thought Boston deserved the tie.

The rookie coach said the Bruins have been playing better on the road than at home this season.

"We have a bit more hustle to our play away from home," he said.

In the only game scheduled for Thursday night, the Rangers complete their most successful half-season of play since the 1941-42 season when they play host to Detroit Red Wings.

Rangers, still tops in the league despite a 3-2 beating by Chicago Tuesday night, go in to their last game of 1966 with an enviable 16-9-6 won-lost-tied record for 31 games.

Last year, after 31 games, the Rangers record was a lowly 7-17-7.

The Rangers have beaten the Wings twice in two starts on New York ice this year. In Detroit, Rangers have won one and lost two.

CENTRES SINEDOWN

Two Rangers centres, Red Berenson and Orlando Kurtenbach, still are out of action. Berenson has a fractured cheekbone and Kurtenbach a pinched nerve in the back.

Rangers have Jim Johnson, 24, a centre from Omaha, Knights, in reserve. He was drafted but didn't get on the ice Tuesday against Chicago.

Toronto Maple Leafs play host to Chicago Saturday night with both regular goalkeepers on the sidelines. Johnny Bower has a broken hand while Terry Sawchuk has a back injury.

Bower, 42, broke his stick hand while stopping a shot during practice Wednesday.

The Leafs will be forced to go with minor leaguers Bruce Gamble and Gary Smith.

Detroit, firmly ensconced in the cellar two points behind Boston, got a nasty Christmas present with the news that defenceman Bert Marshall will be out of action because of a collapsed lung.

Marshall was injured in Detroit's 4-1 tie Tuesday night with the Bruins.

WHL Seals Upset Buckaroos Maple Leafs Down San Diego

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were two games played in the Western Hockey League Wednesday night. California Seals scored a 6-4 upset win over league-leading Portland Buckaroos in Oakland, Calif., and Victoria Maple Leafs downed San Diego Gulls 5-2 in Victoria.

Despite the loss, Portland held on to first place with 47 points, 11 up on second-place Vancouver. Los Angeles Blades have a slim two-point hold on third place with 32 points. Seattle and California are tied for fourth spot with 30 points while Victoria trails with 28 points and San Diego remains in the cellar with 19.

Canadian television viewers will see the annual Rose Bowl game starting at 5 p.m. EST Monday.

The game between Purdue Ballmesters and Southern California University from Pasadena, Calif., will be carried on the CBC's national network.

Tennessee and Syracuse kick off the New Year's holiday bowl action in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., at noon Saturday, followed by the Cotton Bowl between Georgia and Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex.

Alabama and Nebraska meet in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and Georgia Tech plays Florida at Miami in the Orange Bowl in the other Monday games.

Coach Hayden Fry of Southern Illinois scheduled "The game of the year" as a four-day workout for his team. Fry said he had a "game of the year" in mind when he was coaching at Southern Illinois, then lured to the University of Tennessee for the 1964 season.

REMEMBER WHEN...

Papcha Villa went out of his weight 44 years ago to night in 1922 — and out-boxed bantamweight Terry Martin over 15 rounds. Out-pointed early in 1923 by Frankie Genaro. Villa went on to knock out Jimmy Wilde of England for the world flyweight championship but died in July, 1923.

"I'm almost a matter of feet line what the others will do in various situations," Jacobs explained. "You can gamble on a fight and not have to worry about too much else covering for you. You have to play to win. It is a very difficult position mentally."

"Line men and defensive backs can get by on reaction; they don't need as much experience. Linebackers need that experience because teams go out of their way to fool them."

Tracy, 33, was signed as a free agent after being cut by the Philadelphia Eagles in 1962. Jacobs, 29, was acquired from the St. Louis waver wire. Stratton, 26, also joined the club in 1963 on a light end prospect.

Mao Now Faces Dilemma With 2 Leading Comrades

TOKYO (AP)—"The attitude of Communists toward any person who has made mistakes in his work should be one of persuasion in order to help him change and start afresh and not one of exclusion, unless he is incorrigible."

Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung made this statement in 1958. Today 28 years later, Mao at 73 faces a dilemma: Should he continue to try to persuade his former high officials, President Liu Shao-chi, and General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping of the error of their ways? Or should he dismiss them as incorrigible and exclude them from the corridors of Chinese power.

The white-haired Liu and the short, Napoleonic Teng were subjected Tuesday night to the scorn of 100,000 Young Red Guards at a rally in Peking at which Liu was branded the "Khrushchev of China" and the "boss of capitalism."

Wall newspapers in Peking disclosed that Liu and Teng abjectly confess to anti-Mao sins before the party central committee last October, slightly more than two months after Mao had moved Defence Minister Lin Biao into China's No. 2 spot and banished Liu to No. 8.

The sins to which Teng confessed in October were of recent date, revolving chiefly around his incorrect direction of the cultural revolution purge in June and July, while Mao was out of Peking.

Liu's admitted mistakes go back to 1946. Their number and seriousness raise the question: Was he forced on each occasion to indulge in self-criticism? Or has he, through control of the party majority, been able to defy Mao for two decades without being scratched?

It appears that in 1946 he favored a coalition government with Chiang Kai-shek and a long period of peace for China. The implication is that Mao did not and sparked the belligerent wing of the party which welcomed, if it did not encourage, the breakdown of the talks.

LIU also admitted opposing Mao's industrial Great Leap Forward. But instead of being punished, he emerged in April, 1959, as president of China, replacing Mao himself.

Did Mao have to step aside because of the mistakes of his Great Leap? Did he turn over the direction of the country's day-to-day operation to Liu under pressure?

These questions have yet to be answered. The answers may come out in the torrent of abuse which Mao seems to have ordered the Red Guards to let loose.

John Turner, minister without portfolio who released the report for Guy Favreau, registrar-general, said in a statement "the usual consideration would be given to the question of what further steps ought to be taken."

Dangerous Doll 'Not For Sale'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Metropolitan Winnipeg stores, at the request of the provincial fire prevention office, have stopped selling a toy doll described by Fire Chief Cecil Leckie as "explosive and highly dangerous."

The dolls, sold under the name Raggedy Ann Dolls, are made of nitrocellulose and are a "real hazard in a child's hands" if exposed to high heat, Chief Leckie said Wednesday.

Stores have voluntarily stopped all sales of the Polish-made dolls and parents have been urged to "get rid of them as soon as possible."

Chief Leckie said the dolls, which sold for 97 cents, were more likely to be in "poorer" homes where the dangers were greater.

SAGA OF DOOMED SHIP ST. FINBARR

After three men made it up the ladder, Smith found himself unable to complete the climb and fell back into the water but managed to scramble into the raft.

"He reached for the ladder and I think he was too far gone to have the strength," Captain Woodbridge said. "He made a grab for the ladder and he went in the water. I think he died right away."

Gray had "tried to get on the ladder and he was very bad."

The sea pulled at the clothes he had on and pulled him back into the water and he sank."

No attempt was made by the Orsino to recover the bodies, he said. "We had six more men to get in the ship. They were in bad shape."

However, a German ship, identified only as the Hamburg, recovered Smith's body and transferred it to the Orsino.

BODY LANDED

Wrapped in a Union Jack and strapped to a stretcher, it was winched over the side of the Orsino about an hour after she docked Wednesday, before the first of the survivors were helped down a ladder to dock-side.

Some limped ashore on swollen, frostbitten feet. Some were to return home today by air but others were to remain for the inquiry with Captain Sawyers.

During the St. Finbarr's brief career—she was two years old—she was credited with two rescues and became known as one of the luckiest ships on the banks, claiming an English record landing of 1,000,000 pounds of Labrador fish at Hull on her second voyage. She carried about 400 to 450 tons on her 14th trip when she came to grief.

No details were available on the first rescue effected by the St. Finbarr but other fishermen dubbed her "Johnny-on-the-spot" after the second. She steamed here April 19, 1965 from northern Newfoundland waters with the trawler St. Dominic, also from Hull, which had a steel cable caught in her screw.

HAD THREE MORE DAYS

"We only had three more fishing days left," said Captain Sawyers. The St. Finbarr had been 40 days at sea.

A veteran of 25 years at sea, Captain Sawyers had commanded the St. Finbarr since her commissioning in November, 1964. He described her as a "good ship . . . a happy ship."

The crew had decided not to hold their Christmas celebration until they headed for home Tuesday, the day the 1,138-ton vessel finally went down.

Captain Sawyers, father of four, said he had just taken the bridge after breakfast when the fire broke out. The engine room and crew's quarters were engulfed in flames within seven minutes.

Those not killed faced death by freezing in the frigid spray lashing the vessel's decks or suffocation from intense black smoke throughout the rooms and passageways below.

The captain could not pinpoint his position exactly in the first message to the Orsino, 4½ miles away. When he tried to call later, his ship seemed to blow apart.

"I picked the telephone up and I said, 'Christ, she's blowing up.' The next thing I knew I was outside on the funnel casing, laid alongside the funnel with part of the telephone in my hand. That's how quick it happened . . . in a matter of seven minutes."

U.S. Woman Set Free In Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungarian authorities today released Mrs. Janet V. Lemme, 25, an American from Seattle, Wash., on completion of a sentence for helping her husband in an attempt to smuggle his sister and brother-in-law out of Hungary, the U.S. embassy announced.

Mrs. Lemme's husband, Volker Busso Lemme, 29, a Canadian citizen, is scheduled to remain in prison until Feb. 28.

U.S. Consul Clifford H. Gross was reported driving Mrs. Lemme to the Austrian frontier. She was to fly from Frankfurt to Vancouver, and arrive there Friday night.

Lemme had pleaded guilty to having procured Canadian passports under false pretenses to smuggle his sister, Birke Manevitz, and her husband, Kurt, out of Hungary via Yugoslavia last June.

The two couples were arrested when Hungarian border guards discovered forged stamps in the passports of the refugees. Lemme had obtained the stamps in Vienna, Austria.

Janet Lemme was sentenced to six months in prison by a Budapest court Sept. 29. Her husband received an eight-month term. He is a 29-year-old landscape architect.

An appeal by the Lemme couple was rejected by a superior court Nov. 24.

Maybe This Long Forecast Will See Better Weather . . .

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States' weather chief predicted today that two-weeks-in-advance weather forecasts for any part of the world will be possible within 10 to 15 years.

They would predict the weather, fair or foul, for each day over the span, and could lead to enormous dollar savings.

Present-day capabilities of three-day-ahead forecasts are pretty iffy, said Dr. Robert M. White, chief of the government's environmental science services administration, which includes the weather bureau.

The improved prospect stems, White reported, from a recently launched international effort called the World Weather Program in which he said all nations, including Russia and China, are co-operating.

AIMS AT CO-ORDINATION

The long-range effort-planned by the world meteorological organization, a specialized agency of the United Nations—aims at marshalling sophisticated computers, weather-eye satellites and new concepts at atmospheric probing in a co-ordinated effort.

The program envisions not only improved and longer-range weather forecasts but possibly even breakthroughs toward weather control, Dr. White and several American associates said in reports to the meeting of the American Association of the Advancement of Science.

"It may be conservative to say," said White, "that through a world weather program, our nation alone can realize economic benefits exceeding $1,000,000,000 annually. And if weather and climate modification can be achieved on a substantial scale, the benefits to humanity will surpass all our imaginings."

He said that at present, weather hazards kill between 1,200 and 1,300 Americans and cause more than $11,000,000,000 in agricultural and other economic losses every year.

Profits 'Didn't Match Pace' In Growth Of Paper Industry

MONTREAL (CP)—R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said in Montreal today that production of pulp and paper increased by more than nine per cent in 1966 but profits in the industry did not match the pace.

Mr. Fowler, in his year-end report, said the production gain was the largest ever achieved by the Canadian industry and raised the nation's output of pulp and paper to a value of $2,300,000,000.

Final figures for newsprint would show a production increase of nine per cent, and of more than that for paperboard. Kraft paper output rose by upwards of eight per cent.

Canada's exports of wood pulp were an eight per cent in 1966 over 1965.

Mr. Fowler said capital expenditures in the pulp and paper industry also were at record levels in the year now almost passed. They are estimated to have exceeded $500,000,000.

NEW MILLS START

Several new mills began production and there was a furthering of expansion and modernization programs.

Costs increased considerably in 1966 and the output increase thus was not reflected in earnings. Sometimes profits were lower than in 1965.

The association president said the pulp and paper industry's output continued to be near to productive capacity.
